

Forenaktivitätsindex

Beitrag von „James L. Clayton“ vom 30. Januar 2009, 10:44

<http://validator.w3.org/feed/c...rk.de%2Ffeed%2Fshares.rss> sagt, valide ABER:

Feeds should not be served with the "text/rss" media type

RSS feeds should be served as application/rss+xml (RSS 1.0 is an RDF format, so it may be served as application/rdf+xml instead). Atom feeds should use application/atom+xml. Alternatively, for compatibility with widely-deployed web browsers, any of these feeds can use one of the more general XML types - preferably application/xml.

Da denkt sich Firefox bei mir halt: ok - wir wollen den richtigen Mime-Type 😊